

About us

Vandis specialises in delivering real business outcomes to business and technology related issues.

We demystify technical complexity and make it manageable.

Our team is a team of experts. Each of us is a principal consultant in our own right. We work together, as may be required to achieve your project outcomes, to get the greatest breadth of skill, experience and reach. We have the strength to break through any issue which may arise.

Every Vandis engagement is lead by our Principal Consultant, Danny Davis . Each project is directed to utilise the very best specialist skills, whilst retaining the Vandis flavour and the Vandis ethic.

Our unique engagement style delivers professionalism, flexibility, straight-shooting answers and genuine results.

We work with passion to successfully achieve your goals.

We lead teams. We augment your skills. We transfer knowledge. We create structure. We solve problems. We demystify technology. We understand business. We apply disciplines. We manage change. We mentor individuals. We simplify the complex. We provide direction. We plan the path. We communicate the vision. We deliver control. We facilitate the outcomes. We achieve results.

Vandis is a high level boutique consultancy who:

- assist business with technology management;
- assist technology with business management; and provide innovative, practical, commercial benefit to our clients.
